The Pittsburgh Gazette

REPUBLICANS! read the letter of our special correspondent at Washington, and then apply yourselves to the duty before you of rolling up a round majority in Pennsylvania.

REPUBLICANS of Pittsburgh! bear in mind the rally to-night at Hare's Hotel. Ex-Gov. Curtin, Governor Geary, Hon. Galusha A. Grow, and the Hon. J. H. Campbell are announced as speakers. Let there be an old-fashioned turn-out, worthy the cause and the reputation of this Republican stronghold.

JOHNSON CONVENTION.—A call appeared in yesterday's Dispatch and Republic for a "Conservative" Convention, to nominate a Johnson County ticket. The primary meetings are to be held on Saturday next, and the Convention will meet next Wednesday.

This, we take it, is a move against BARR and his County ticket, the Democratic County Convention having ignored Johnson altogether, and refused to recognize the Republic. It is a very pretty fight, as it stands; and as all the votes this new ticket will get will come off of the Democracy, no patriotic citizen will grieve at the split.

CALIFORNIA ELECTION.—One Democratic rooster got awake and crowed just after dark, mistaking a bonfire for daylight. The Republicans have two of a majority in the California Legislature, on joint ballot, and this secures a Republican United States Senator. There were two Republican candidates for Governor; and the copperhead, Haight, is elected by 5,65- majority. The decrease in the total vote, since last election, is 14,068. Then the Democracy polled 25,384. This year they polled but 24,622, a decrease of 962. Last year the Republicans polled 34,063; this year 20,957. The Copperheads will hear from the stay-at-home Unionists at the next election.

THE DECISIONS made at the ballot-box, so far as they relate to the candidates themselves, are of very subordinate consequence. The decisions made, touching principles and policies are of vital importance. The men of the South who took up arms for the destruction of the government, and the establishment of another based primarily upon Slavery, were thoroughly beaten on the battle-field. They made an appeal to the arbitrament of the sword, and the verdict was against them. Naturally they are not satisfied with the award made by battle, and seek by subtlety and craft to evade it. By the course of events--particularly by the conduct of the President—the conclusion reached by the loyal armies, is to be reviewed at the election. The question is raised and must be determined, whether the results of patriotic martial achievements shall be reversed—whether the authority and control shall be wrenched from the men who won it by their prowess, in conformity to the laws, and be given over to traitors—or whether the leaders of the revolt shall be made to take back seats until re-organization shall be perfected. Shall Northern ideas of government, order, peace and fraternity, prevail? or shall Southern ideas of resistance to the laws, encouragement of rankest disorders, resistance of the laws, and bloody revolution be established.

THE World says the Mormons must "be credited with wonderful exploits. They have taken the most degraded population of Great Britain, the Welch miners and English laborers, and have trained them into ways of thrift, sobriety, cleanliness, and a certain kind of intelligence. They have literally changed a desert into a garden, and soon an opulent State will appear in what but a few years since was a howling wilderness. For the present we ought to let the Mormons alone. They are helping to populate a thinly settled section with hard-working and intelligently directed people."

Miners and laborers should feel complimented to know that so large a portion of their numbers may be improved by BRIGHAM YOUNG's training. This democratic estimate of laborers is in perfect keeping with the party policy of selling a class of workingmen, with work animals; and the defenders of Slavery may well espouse the cause of its twin sister, Polygamy.

PARIS has been favored by a quack doctor, Zouave Jacob, who proposes to cure all forms of paralysis by magnetism. His many and miraculous cures were abundantly proved by certificates from priests and laymen of note. Being called to see General Forey, he looked at his patient and said, "Walk, because I say you can walk." The palsied limbs refused to obey the order. Poor Jacob is pronounced an impostor. The many whom he did not cure, and some who have certified to his skill, have given counter certificates. The falling Doctor seeks to be called in to see the Prince Imperial to test his power on the knee, which has so long defied the skill of the whole college of physicians.

LOVE AND MURDER.—On Saturday, the 21st, Robert Garlutt, aged twenty-one years, shot Joseph La Plant, aged fifty-six, through the heart, on a street in Detroit. La Plant was walking, at the time, with Emily Boucher, a young girl to whom he was to be married soon and who was also engaged to Garlutt. La Plant's wife was but three months dead, but he was rich, the young lover poor, the girl false, and her forsaken lover drunk. So the old lover is dead, the young one in jail, the girl likely to be a mother, and much in want of a husband, and the affair done up in French style furnishes columns of sensation for the good people of Detroit.

THE "RAMIE."—Southern agriculturists are talking of this plant as likely to displace cotton. It was brought from Japan. A Mr. Roezl has cultivated it in Mexico and sent a box of roots to New Orleans last spring. These have been purchased and planted by different planters and promise well. It resembles the common nettle; yields three crops a year in the Gulf State climate; is more hardy than cotton, and is more easily cultivated, as the roots remain in the ground and continue to grow year after year. The fiber resembles cotton, but is longer and stronger. It is separated from its woody covering, like flax, by means of a brake.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN GREAT BRITAIN.—It is stated that Disraeli's new bill permits women to vote, as he failed to express the contrary, as by an act of '50, "words importing the masculine gender shall be deemed and taken to includes females, unless the contrary is expressly provided."

MRS. PALMER, Mrs. H. D. Caldwell and Miss Carrie Caldwell were thrown from a carriage near Booneville, N. Y. Mrs. Caldwell died of her injuries and Mrs. Palmer's recovery is doubtful. The accident was caused by a bee stinging the horse.

A CHICAGO paper says the street cars are "full of bed-bugs." As it has never yet been ascertained how many people can be put into a street car before it is full, we feel curious to have the census of the bed-bugs that ride through the sensational city as dead heads. How many bed-bugs fill a car? To add to this inviting account of this modern invention, and indispensable means of locomotion, the New York Evening Post says:

"The cars on several of our own city lines are more or less infested with fleas and such "small deer," to the great disgust and annoyance of decent passengers. The cushions, floors and linings of some of our horse cars are foul to a degree almost unbearable. The odor given out by them is positively fetid, and they are sticky and slimy to the touch."

Pleasant mode of getting home to dinner! We join with the Post in recommending wooden or cane seats, and a throwing out of cushions.

THE World is congratulating Messrs. Beecher, Raymond, Bryant and Greeley on their foresight in taking conservative ground in advance of the Republican masses, and likens them to the mountain peaks which first caught the rays of the rising sun of Democracy. Strangely enough Doolittle is left out of this range of peaks, who tower above "the prejudiced people," "the people ignorant," the "journalists with prejudice and ignorance for subscribers," and "a popular preacher's ignorance and passion for a congregation." Surely Mr. Doolittle's name should appear on the roll of those Republicans who turned their backs upon the ignorant people, who thrashed the life out of the Rebellion, and the light of their countenances upon the unenlightened people who joined their country's enemy in their country's hour of need.

THE Memphis Ledger says "if Johnson succeeds in carrying out the measures he so plainly intimates, removes the standing armies, the military occupation," they are to have a nice time re-establishing "a republican form of Government." Does the Ledger suppose that men in this region forget that the Southern definition of that term differs, materially, from that given to it by the men who have won, at a cost of hundreds of thousands of lives and millions of treasure, the right to enforce their ideas, and will the survivors of our battle-fields permit Johnson, and the Ledger, to re-establish what their comrades died to destroy?

THE 25th annual Fair of the Herkimer County Agricultural Society closed on the 19th, and the Utica Herald says the display in many departments was meager, the interest being chiefly shown in stock and flowers. The organ grinders and negro minstrels did a good business. The ladies displayed a variety of quilts and carpets. Since quilts and carpets are so much easier made by machinery, do not women of this day burden themselves with a labor belonging to a past age by continuing to make them in the old way?

GEN. SHERMAN AND THE INDIANS.—A St. Louis dispatch of the 21th says that General Sherman told the red men, "If you don't leave the roads alone I will kill you, and I will give you neither powder nor ball until you make peace," but next day he concluded to give them ammunition and wait for the peace. How many homes have been darkened by the shadow of death by the suicidal policy of dealing out ammunition to hostile savages!

LATE discoveries show that Nashville, Tenn., was the cite of a populous city in the long ages gone by. A vast catacomb in which thousands of dead were enclosed in tombs of flat rock artificially joined, has been partially explored; these remains it is thought must have been buried six or seven hundred years ago.

IN ST. LOUIS a lot owner finding his taxes onerous drew a plan of a block of cheap houses, formed a company with a stone mason, a brick layer, a carpenter, a plasterer and painter. They put up the block and divided it, so that it was a profitable investment to each, and a permanent improvement to the city.

LETTERS FROM TENNESSEE say that the trouble about discharging freedmen for voting the Radical ticket is about over. Farmers who discharged their hands were generally compelled to employ those who had been discharged by others for a like cause, and so it was but a change of hands.

THE Empress Eugenia got a thorough drenching in a rain storm at Lille, and suffers from severe rheumatic pains. Not much use in being an Empress if the honor cannot secure one the use of a good umbrella, and rubbers, in a rain. Mrs. John Smith seldom gets wet for want of them.

THE young Prince Imperial is in want of tutor. Monsiur Monnier having been dismissed for incompetence. The poor tutor complains in a whining, inelegant letter, which fully justifies his removal, and renders his appointment a court mystery.

A STRANGER, supposed to be Clarence Brewster, hung himself near Ontario, on the limb of a tree. He had drafts on New York to the amount of $2,200, and five dollars in money in his pocket, and had used his 'kerchief as a rope.

THE Kentucky State Fair closed at Louisville on the 21st. The principal interest was in the horses, and the highest premium on these was $20; and at the closing hop a blue ribbon was awarded to the handsomest lady.

THE Louisville Democrat complains that Sheridan still exhibits himself. The Rebs, at Winchester, were in like manner offended, as they saw more of him than they cared for.

AN OLD WOMAN, while gathering bits of coal on the railroad track in Harrisburg, was struck by the engine of the Philadelphia fast line, and seriously injured, on the 21st.

Two black men of Griffin, N. C., quarreled about a girl and fought in the woods with axes. One split the head of the other so that he died, and is held to bail in $500.

A LITTLE GIRL in West Bend, Wis., strayed away from home, and it was eleven days before she was found, and she was then gnawing her own hands to sustain life.

CHARLES BANDELAIRE, the French poet, who translated all of the poems of EDGAR POE, into French, died a victim of opium and rum, a few days since, in a hospital in Paris.

SO FAR, this year, 547,700 tons more of anthracite coal have been sent to market from Pennsylvania than during the corresponding period last year.

EUGENIA is said to have used her influence with Victoria to prevent the publication of any more of her books of private history.

FROM EUROPE BY STEAMER.

NEW YORK, September 24, 1867.

GARIBALDI'S SPEECH AT GENEVA.

The Java's mails arrived from Boston to-night. The following is Garibaldi's speech at his reception at Geneva:

"This is not the first time I have had occasion to testify my gratitude to the brave republican people of Helvetia. In 1848, when Italy, my country, was unhappy and ground under a foreign yoke, when my friends and myself were proscribed by tyrants, here on this sacred soil of liberty we sought and found an asylum. (Applause.) To-day I express my thanks for the refuge which this generous people gives to the Democracy of the entire world. Here your ancestors had the courage to form the first attack on the pestilent institution called the Papacy. (Prolonged applause.) From you, citizens of this Geneva, become so magnificent, who struck the first blows at Papal Rome; from you it is no longer the initiative I demand, but to complete the work of your forefathers, when we shall give the final blow to the monster. You will perhaps smile at the bashful forecoming to Geneva to recommend concord, yet I do advise it because concord among free men on life with soil, represents also, concord among free men in every country. Your concord, therefore, is of universal interest. But, if your liberty is ever menaced, if the despots of other countries, will come, and bring our rifles for its defense. (Cheers.) Adieu, then, adieu. I thank you from my heart for your excellent reception. Adieu."

SPANISH EMPRESARIS.

The London Time's Paris correspondent says the Spanish Government is in its full career of reaction. Prim has given the army an amnesty unlimited as one means of putting an end to the in-surrection. Narvaez, unfettered by pledges of his Liberal past, arrests the anti-reactionists by thousand and ships them off to Philippines or Fernando Po. Seven hundred or eight hundred prisoners have already been shipped from Catalonia.

THE GENEVA PEACE CONGRESS AND THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT.

The Paris correspondence of the Daily News says: "I am informed that the French Government has intimated to the Geneva authorities that it regards the Peace Congress as a meeting of conspirators against France and an infraction of that neutrality which is the condition of the existence of the Swiss Republic. This is the explanation of the excessive sentry by Jules Favre and other Frenchmen, for their non-attendance."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

LONDON, September 24—Evening—Consols 94 7-16; U. S. Bonds, 73½; Illinois Central, 77¼; Erie, 41¼. No quotations of our securities received over the Cable from New York to-day.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., September 24.—J. Reynolds' furniture manufactory, corner of Ninth and Vliet streets, was burned last night. Loss thirty thousand dollars. No insurance.

WASHINGTON.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, September 24, 1867.

THE SUFFERERS IN LOUISIANA.

From New Orleans we learn that the President of the Howard Association has received sufficient money to defray the expenses of the Association thus far. He has acknowledged in the dailies the receipts of liberal donations from all the principal cities in the North. The expenses at present are twenty thousand dollars per day. Applications from sixty families were registered to-day, in some of whom every member was sick. The number of deaths are on the increase. From these figures will be seen the necessity of continued and liberal aid from the friends of humanity everywhere. The Howard Association in New Orleans has been extending its aid to the infected districts in the State.

THE ELECTIONS IN THE SOUTH.

The dispatch published yesterday concerning the anticipated postponement of the elections in the South, was official, coming from the President himself. Grant has not yet had any correspondence with the military commanders on the subject. According to the President, he and Gen. Grant had agreed that such a course should be taken, but although the alleged understanding has been known for several days, Gen. Grant has as yet taken no steps in the matter, and it is given out semi-officially from the War Department that he will do nothing, neither in the way of ordering or suggesting, but will leave everything with the military commanders themselves. According to this statement of the situation, if Mr. Johnson wants postponement he will be compelled to order it on his own responsibility.

INDIAN AFFAIRS—PEACE PROSPECTS FLATTERING.

Upon recommendation of the Indian Bureau the Secretary of the Interior has directed that the agency for the Osage, Insane and other Indians, in Kansas, be transferred from the Southern to the Central Superintendency headquarters.

Letters received from Hon. N. G. Taylor, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, received at the Indian Office this morning, dated Omaha, Sept. 22d, says: "Our council with the Blackfeet Platte Indians is perfectly satisfactory, and the prospects of peace with the Indians are more flattering than ever. The Sioux, Arapahoes, Cheyennes, Kioways, Camanches and friendly Cheyennes are willing, if the other Cheyennes who have left here agree with them, to make peace. This is spreading in the country. No provisions are to be found in town, and the country people will not venture in with produce. On the 9th not even meal could be had to make gruel for the sick. Business consequently entirely closed. Newspapers ceased publication. The jail had been emptied of its inmates, who fled in terror from the scene of desolation.

INDIANS.

The North Platte Council—Contradictory Reports—Cholera at Omaha.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS Sept. 24.—The Eighteenth Kansas regiment left Fort Hays on Sunday for Fort Larned to protect the Indian Commissioners.

Omaha dispatches say Commissioner Taylor is denying the reports of correspondents from the council at North Platte. The reporters affirm their statements and say Farnum's Killed, and Generals Sherman and Sheridan's scalps are hanging in the lodges. Sherman had painted his forehead as a token of war, and rode away in disgust. They also say it is believed by the Indians that the privilege herein given is apprehended.

RETIRING BOARDS OF ARMY OFFICERS.

The Retiring Board of Army officers, who have been in session at Philadelphia for some time, was dissolved by direction of General Grant. The following officers are detailed as members of the Retiring Board to convene in New York: Maj. Gen. Cook, Brig. Gen. Gardner, Brig. Gen. Sully, Brig. Gen. Wood, Brig. Gen. W. J. Nolan, Lieut. Col. Hammond, and Maj. Sanford.

PATENTS ISSUED.

For the week ending October 1st 244 patents have been issued from the Patent Office.

LECTURE BY A CHICAGO CLERGYMAN.

Rev. Robert Collyer, of Chicago, lectured before the Liberal Christian Union last night.

NEW WORKINGMEN'S HOME.

The new Workingmen's Home was open for public inspection to-day, and was much praised.

THE NEW BONDED WAREHOUSE REGULATION.

The excitement over the new Treasury regulation about bonded warehouses, is subsiding. It is believed there will be no occupation for all able to comply with the order.

VESSEL WITH WHISKY REPORTED SEIZED.

A vessel loaded with whisky was reported seized to-day.

YELLOW FEVER RAVAGES.

A dispatch from Key West states the yellow fever on the 21st of August had assumed a frightful form. It is estimated that one-tenth of the entire number of soldiers and prisoners on the island have died since the arrival of the British war steamer Cornet, ordered from Halifax to convey the body to England.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION ADJOURNED.

The New York Constitutional Convention adjourned to-day until the second Tuesday in November.

CHAMPIONSHIP BILLIARD MATCH OFF.

A Montreal special says the championship billiard match between Dion and Nelms is off. Molsevitt is in the field for a match with Dion.

EXTENSIVE FIRE.

An extensive fire occurred this evening near the intersection of Grand and Tompkins streets, originating in the planing and saw mill of White, Barley & Co. Fourteen buildings were destroyed, involving a loss of about $30,000.

CINCINNATI.

Grand Base Ball Tournament—Buckeye Club Races—Exciting Mile Heats.

CINCINNATI, O., September 24.—The grand base ball tournament began to-day at the grounds of the Union Club, on Mt. Auburn. Quite a number of the clubs from different parts of the State are present, to take part in the contests for the various prizes.

The celebrated Hickory Club, of McConnellsville, O., played the Buckeye Club of this city to-day for a silver ball, and beat them, the score standing—Hickory, 51, Buckeye, 34. There were over five thousand people on the grounds, and great enthusiasm was manifested.

The Buckeye Club races were well attended to-day. The first race, handicap hurdle, two miles, purse five hundred dollars—four hundred to the first horse and one hundred to the second—was won by Alexander's Jonesboro; time 4:47. Deserter and Whalebone fell at the second hurdle, but recovered themselves and Deserter came in the second.

The second race, mile heats for all ages, purse four hundred dollars, was very exciting. Four horses were entered—Watson, Mack, General M'Mahon and Caledonia. Watson was the favorite. The first heat was won by Mack, Watson second, Caledonia third, and M'Mahon fourth. Time 1:46. The second heat was won by M'Mahon, Mack second, Watson third, and Caledonia fourth. Time 1:44. The third heat was won by Mack, M'Mahon second, Watson and Caledonia distanced. Time 1:54.

CALIFORNIA

Union County Nominations—Increase of Property Values and Agricultural Products, &c.—Telegraphic Communication Between Cuba and California.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, September 24.—The Union County Convention of San Francisco have nominated Messrs. Cowles and Blake, the present incumbents, for County and Probate Judge, and Mr. Londerback for Police Judge. The party is united on these nominations, and in support of Mr. Currey for Justice of the Supreme Court, and Mr. Swett for Superintendent of Instruction. The Independent press, which opposed Mr. Gorham, urge the election of all the above candidates.

The statistics of county assessors throughout the State show a material increase in property values, improved land, and the amount of agricultural products and manufactures.

Legal Tenders 70¼@71; Seven-thirty bonds 79@80; Wheat $2.05@2.07½; Onions 4c.

Congratulations have been exchanged between the Governor General of Cuba and the Governor of California on the establishment of telegraphic communication between California and Cuba.

RICHMOND.

Eligibility to Membership of the State Convention—Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention—Tobacco Factory at Petersburg Burned.

RICHMOND, Va., September 24.—General Schofield has decided that the only restriction imposed upon eligibility to membership of the State Convention is, having taken the oath to the United States, and afterward aided the rebellion.

Delegates are arriving to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, which meets here to-morrow.

The tobacco factory of Ruben Ryoland, at Petersburg, was burnt this morning. Loss two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Insured for eighty thousand dollars.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—About one hundred delegates to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, arrived to-night. A caucus is to be held and a platform determined as follows: "Equal rights before the law; the encouragement of education; more equal taxation, and a fostering of the industrial interests of the State."

HAVANA.

The Captain General Ill—New Cuban Governor—Departure for Mexico.

HAVANA, Sept. 23.—Captain General Manzano is very ill.

Count Balmonzada, to-night, was placed in charge of the Cuban Government.

Mr. Plumer and Captain Quackenbush, of the United States Navy, have left for Mexico.

Addresses of Gov. Cox and H. J. Jewett—Pendleton's Scheme of Paying the National Debt in Greenbacks Ventilated.

CLEVELAND, O., September 24.—Gov. Cox and H. J. Jewett are addressing the Republican meeting here to-night. Cox's speech was devoted to Pendleton's scheme of paying the National debt in greenbacks, and is an able address and exhaustive of the subject. Regarding greenbacks and bonds, he says they are alike promises to pay dollars, i. e. so many grains of silver or gold as defined by law, and alike valuable, in so far as they so promised. The original design was to issue greenbacks instead of bonds, but Mr. Chase's counsel prevailed. The speaker said that in case of the issue of greenbacks to take the place of bonds, a depreciation proportionate to the increase of circulation must take place; and beyond this, so large an issue creating doubts of the intention of the government ever to redeem it in coin, would cause still further depreciation and ultimate worthlessness, and make the somewhat novel point that war with the foreign governments whose people held our bonds would be the possible result. He is still speaking, and is warmly applauded by an immense audience.

John A. Logan will speak here Saturday next.

NEW ORLEANS.

Yellow Fever Interments—Ravages of the Disease in Lagrange, Texas—Frightful State of Affairs.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24.—The interments from yellow fever, for twenty-four hours ending this morning, were eighty-two.

Letters from Lagrange, Texas, state the number of citizens remaining in town is barely five hundred, yet the interments reached twenty-four in two days. The disease is proving fatal in nine cases out of ten. Every house is filled with sickness and death, and whole families are swept away. The disease is spreading in the country. No provisions are to be found in town, and the country people will not venture in with produce. On the 9th not even meal could be had to make gruel for the sick. Business consequently entirely closed. Newspapers ceased publication. The jail had been emptied of its inmates, who fled in terror from the scene of desolation.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 24.—River stationary, with 27 inches in the Canal by mark.

—The late tipsy and brilliant Senator McDougal was the first man to detect Andrew Johnson's drunkenness, on the 4th of March, 1865, the day of his disgraceful exhibition at his inauguration. McDougal, himself well in liquor, listened for a few minutes to the blatherskite harangue, and turning to an eminent Senator who sat near him, remarked in a husky voice: "I say—you; when I—talk in that way—you think—I'm drunk."

THE CAMPAIGN.

Grand Republican Rally—Large and Enthusiastic Meeting at Lawrenceville—The People Aroused.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings it has been our pleasure to witness was held last night at the corner of Bellefountaine and Butler streets, Lawrenceville. A commodious stand for the speakers had been erected at the corner above mentioned, and was brilliantly lighted by large lamps and lanterns, and long before the hour appointed for the meeting a vast number of persons had gathered on the ground, and from their earnest manner plainly indicated that the apathy into which the people throughout the greater portion of the State have fallen had no place in their hearts. It was a real old fashioned Republican meeting, hizhly enthusiastic, yet perfect order prevailed. At half past seven o'clock the meeting was organized by calling Mr. John Chislett, Jr., to the chair, A. D. Anderson, Vice President and D. T. Vanderhoef, Secretary.

The President stated the object of the meeting in a few pointed remarks. At the close of which General Moorhead was called to the stand, who spoke in substance as follows:

GEN. MOORHEAD'S REMARKS.

He said this was the opening of the campaign and that he was like a boy in a new school house. Or in other words, he was like a young colt in unbroken. Though before to tell the citizens of Lawrenceville what to do! They knew their duty as well as he did. He supposed they all knew Andy Johnson. They knew that he had been elected Vice President by their votes, and J. Wilkes Booth had made him President, and that he were now placed in the humiliating position of denouncing a man whom we had placed in power by our own votes. He did not intend to make a speech, as there were other more able speakers present and some of them might think that old "Uncle Sam" was taking up too much time. The only State officer we have to elect this fall is that of Supreme Judge, for which

REPUBLICAN RALLY TO-NIGHT.

There will be a grand Republican rally on Liberty street, in front of Hare's Hotel, to night. Do not forget the time and place, but turn out, every one.

Governor GEARY, Hon. G. A. GROW, and Hon. J. H. CAMPBELL, of Schylkill county, will certainly be here to address the meeting; and there is reason to hope Governor CURTIN will also be here.

P. S.—We have just learned that Hon. R. STOKETT MATTHEWS, of Baltimore, one of the staunch Radicals of Maryland, and a most eloquent and effective speaker, will be here to-night, certain. Seldom has such an opportunity been offered to hear a splendid speech. It will be a rare treat. Every person that ever heard him speaks of him in terms of enthusiastic praise.

With these four excellent speakers, there ought to be a most splendid turnout to-night. Rally, Republicans of Allegheny county, in old fashioned style.

GEN. JNO. W. GEARY will address the Convention of the Grand Army of the Republic, at their hall, on Fourth street, this evening, at eight o'clock. All the members of the order are invited and urged to be present.

The Commanding officers of the Department and District, with their staffs, will be present.

THERE will be no disappointment as to the appearance of Gov. GEARY at both the meetings announced above.

BOYS.

A son of Scranton, the founder of Scranton, Pa., joined the ranks of the laborers in his father's foundries, that he might learn the practical part of the iron business. The son of a well known and wealthy New York publisher used to leave his elegant home every morning, with his tin pail and in the garb of a laborer, and betake himself to a machine shop to labor as hard as the hardest, that he might learn the business. We also know the son of an eminent college professor who is doing nearly the same thing.—N. Y. Gazette.

The "son of a wealthy New York publisher," alluded to above, is Gilbert Jones, son of George Jones, of the New York Times. He graduated from the New York Novelty Works, after a regular and severe apprenticeship, with all the honors, and he is now in a manufacturing business in the city of Brooklyn, on his own account—a business for which his mechanical knowledge and experience admirably qualify him. And young Jones is not only a first class machinist, but quite as much of a "gentleman" as if he had graduated at college and had regularly rounded off seasons at Saratoga and Newport.—Troy Times.

The son of the "eminent college professor," is William W. Tyler, son of Professor Tyler, of Amherst College. Young Tyler graduated at Amherst in 1864, taking the second highest honor in his class, and immediately after commenced serving a regular apprenticeship in the Ames Company's Works at Chicopee, where he has remained ever since, not only studying the business theoretically, but learning to do with his own hands all kinds of work. The great need of the country and the age is for liberally educated men in the mechanical and industrial departments, and if more young men would graduate from college to a machine shop instead of the already overcrowded professions of law, medicine and divinity, they would do a good thing for themselves and the world.—Springfield Mass Republican.

The case of Mr. SCRANTON'S son is not peculiar. His father was a mechanic, and he wisely chose the calling that endowed the family with comfort, wealth, and distinction. Such instances abound on all hands. It is, however, not common for boys brought up in what are called by the votaries of fashion "the genteeler walks of life" to select a trade rather than a profession. Ordinarily they are kept back from engaging in mechanical pursuits, even when they have a taste therefor, by their female relations, whose social ideas are shocked by what they foolishly regard as plebian tendencies. Sometimes, indeed, fathers lack good sense on this point, and encourage their sons to enter upon a profession, already overcrowded except at top, to which only persons of extraordinary capacities can possibly attain. We knew a boy, the only son of a lawyer of eminence. The son had a real genius for mechanism; and begged to be allowed to develop himself in that direction. Had he obtained consent, he would have made a grand success. But the father insisted the boy should be a lawyer, and in due time take his lucrative practice. To-day that boy is little better than a common loafer. His father's unwise determination wrecked him.

We insist that most boys ought to learn a trade. To such learning it is necessary they should have opportunity. One of our chief objections to the Trade Unions is that they deny this to all but a small number of boys, by limiting rigidly the proportion of apprentices that may be instructed. This is one of the most odious forms of denying knowledge to those who need it; of keeping persons in ignorance of things most essential for them to know, in order to build up a superior caste; and of degrading the masses of laborers under a pretense of protecting labor and ennobling it. The streets of all towns are filled with boys, who have no lawful resource but work for the obtainment of the necessaries of life, and they are arbitrarily refused the right to learn trades. They are forced, many of them against their wills, to accept the lot of day laborers, at starvation prices, or else to join the dangerous classes, and prey upon society in one form or another. We do not believe in trying to dignify labor in this way. If there is one form of aristocracy more repulsive to us than another it is one class of workmen attempting to build themselves up by trampling down other classes of workmen who are in an inferior position as to instruction in practical affairs. We believe in work and workers; in giving all a fair chance; and in combined efforts to elevate toilers of every grade and degree.

OUR ADVICES from Philadelphia and generally from the eastern section of the State, are full of encouragement. The Democrats brag, as they did last year, of vast reductions to be made in the Republican majorities; but they will not get beyond bragging.

Judge Williams will not fall behind his ticket in Philadelphia, nor will the Republican majority there fall materially, if any, below last year's majority.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Education of Farmers' Daughters.

The following sensible remarks by one of the leading educators of the State, we find in the current number of the National Agriculturist. Our country readers cannot over-estimate the importance of the subject so cleverly handled:

The time was when it was considered unnecessary to educate women. Then she was the slave—not the companion of man. Slowly has the error been dispelled. There are those still in our country, quite intelligent men, too, who assert that all women need is simply a knowledge of the most common branches of study. But when we know that there are twenty-two colleges in our land which receive students of both sexes, affording the same advantages to both, and that through the great liberality of Mr. Vassar, a splendid building, costing half a million of dollars, has been erected, where young ladies may enjoy the very best privileges under the most able instructors with elegant libraries, cabinets and works of art, we realize that a change has taken place in the public mind and that woman is beginning to enjoy the privileges so long denied her and to which she is justly entitled. The happiness and interests of man, as well as woman, are concerned in this upward movement. No intelligent man desires to be associated with an ignorant companion. The two have a mutual influence over each other, elevating and ennobling or degrading and debasing. Then woman has far more to do with the formation of the mind of the child than man. During all her growth the girl is the constant companion of her mother; and this is true, also, of the boy, in all the earlier years of his life. The mother molds the mind and forms the heart. From her the child takes his impressions. She imparts to it from her well or ill-furnished mind its first food for thought and its incentives to action. On her the children lean, in her they confide. And the child which has a true, good and intelligent mother is not ashamed to have it known that he is influenced and controlled by her; indeed, it is his pride.

If these statements are correct, then to what extent should our farmers' daughters be educated? It is not true, as is often asserted, that their position is low and they must not be educated above it, lest they become unhappy and unfitted for their place? By no means; no part of this assertion is true. A farmer's life is suited to give wealth, health and virtue. It is a high and honorable calling, of which no one need be ashamed; usually removed from the city and from much society. If the farmer and his wife have a taste for books they may improve and enjoy themselves much; if not, the mind will become weak and will be occupied with trifling and unimportant matter. The children, too, cannot usually enjoy the privileges afforded in our cities. More than others are they with and under the influence of the mother. If she is thoroughly educated, possessing a knowledge of history, literature and science, she will ever be pouring knowledge into the minds of the children, improving their taste and inspiring them with a love of books and of knowledge. The more she knows, the more she will be respected by the children, and the more readily will they be influenced by her in all respects. Besides no class of persons more need the amusement and soothing influence of books than farmers' wives and daughters. All persons require changes, recreations and amusements. The mind confined to one mode of thinking, without relaxation, often loses its balance and becomes permanently disordered. And we have seen it stated in the reports of superintendents of Insane Asylums that a larger per centage, in proportion, of farmers' wives become insane than of any other class, and this is owing mainly to the severity and want of variety of their mode of life. Hence the demand for the pleasures and changes which books afford, and the strength of mind which a sound education gives. We love to think of the happiness which is enjoyed away from the excitement and temptation of the city by the family, after the toils of the day are over, gathered around the domestic hearth in reading or study. And this is not all theory. Names, without number, of our noblest women and most gifted men might be given, who were brought on the farm, and had their minds and hearts formed by well educated, intelligent mothers. Above all things let the farmer give his daughter a thorough education in the higher as well as the lower branches. To her it will be worth more, in all respects, than the cattle, or land, or stock he may leave. It will give her character, position and influence. It will prepare her to be happy, to succeed in life, to be useful. Educate, educate your daughters no less than your sons.

Improvement of Soils.

When sand rests upon a clay subsoil it is often very much improved by penetrating the subsoil in plowing, and mingling the two together, since the clay furnishes the necessary amendment to such soils.

There is no way of improving soils more permanent in its character than this proper admixture of soils. They are more easily tilled, and are more susceptible to the influence of manure, and can be more cheaply kept in a state of productiveness.

The most fertile soils are those in which the different earthly constituents are properly balanced, and in the improvement of farms it is well to look to the character of the soil, and consider whether there are not other means within reach, apart from a direct application of manure for its improvement. Land hardly balanced in its composition will, perhaps, require a long series of years in the application of organic manures before it reaches a condition, to which often it may be brought in a short time, by mingling with it a portion of the soil of an adjacent field. In many instances the expense of cartage in removing clay, sand, &c., renders their use impracticable, but frequently it can be effected cheaply, and will pay largely for the permanent character of the improvement made.

Sandy soils are benefited from the clay chiefly by reason of its power as an absorbent, whereby manures, or matter resulting from the decomposition of roots and vegetables are retained, and made available for the food of plants, while the sand benefits the clay soils by breaking up its tenacious qualities, and altering its texture, rendering it more easily worked and permeable to air, water and the roots of plants.

Milk.

In an article on the qualities of milk, etc., Dr. Voecker says:

"Generally speaking, small races, or small individuals of the larger races, gives the richest milk from the same kind of food. Where good quality is the main object, Alderneys and Guernseys unquestionably are the cows that ought to be kept, for they give a richer cream than any other kind in common use in this country, but, of course, Alderneys are not the most profitable stock for cow-keepers in towns, with whom the Yorkshire cow, essentially a Shorthorn, is the favorite breed, as it surpasses all others for the quantity it yields. This milk, however, compared with that of the Alderneys or Ayrshire cow, is more watery and less rich in butter, and, therefore, not well suited for dairies in which butter and cheese are made. In the spring of the year and the early part of summer, milk is more abundant and the butter made from it of a finer flavor. As soon as the season advances the supply diminishes, but becomes richer in butter. The influence of food on the quality of milk is very striking. A half starved cow not only yields but little milk, but what it does yield is miserably poor. On the other hand, the liberal supply of food, rich in nitrogeneous and phosphatic elements of nutrition, tells directly on the milk. Nothing, therefore, can be more injudicious than to stint dairy cows in food."

The Potato Rot.

We find the following concerning the potato rot, which is now doing much damage in Maryland, in the Lancaster (Pa.) Examiner:

As there is a great deal of complaint about potatoes rotting in the ground, I thought it probable that most farmers would take them up earlier than usual, which renders them very liable to rot if great care is not taken. I have a plan that I got from a practical farmer, and I tried it several years on my potato crop quite satisfactorily. After taking them out of the ground, which should be tolerably dry, so that it does not adhere to the potato very much, I select all the unsound and bruised ones, and on some dry floor, I spread a thin coat of good wood ashes and then a layer of the sound potatoes, and so for every layer of potatoes, a layer of ashes; but not many layers should be placed on top of each other, as they do not get the air so well.

A Wheel Hoe for Root Culture.

A friend describes a wheel hoe, which he finds serviceable in the culture of carrots, beets and other roots. Take two wheels about eight inches in diameter, and attach them by an axletree of the desired length to run between the rows. Then take a thin plate of steel thirteen inches long, and rivet one end of the two arms to the blade, and screw the other end of the arms to the front side of the axle, at a proper angle, that you may walk erect, and you may pass in between the rows as fast as you please to walk. The depth of culture may be regulated by elevating or depressing the handle. The ends of the blade should set on a range with the outside of the wheels, that you may push it forward rapidly without danger of cutting the plants, the wheels answering for a guide to the eye.

The implement should be used upon the field as soon as the plants are large enough to follow the rows, and in comparison with the common hand hoe, it reduces the labor and expense of culture one-half.

AN ALARMING LETTER FROM ONE NOT AN ALARMIST.

(Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, 1867.

MR. PENNIMAN:—I drop you this line because I wish to impress your mind, if possible, with my own idea of the solemnity of the issue now pending.

If you knew me well, as I wish you did, you would know that I am no alarmist—not a bit of it. Yet I believe that the President means mischief. He is in consultation constantly with Black, Randall and his ring of "shysters" from Philadelphia, Wood, of New York, et id omnes genus. The returned rebels of Maryland are being nightly drilled in squads and companies. Two friends of mine, being about Jessup's Cut, between here and Baltimore, known and reliable radicals, assure me that their lives are hardly safe; that the battalions of Lee openly threaten what they will do. All the evil spirits which crept to their holes in the presence of the loyal bayonets, have come forth like the midsummer rattle-snake, livid with long secreting venom and preparing, on small provocation, for the poisoned blow. A young gentleman, even in Washington county, Maryland, who had graduated in our army and was a few days ago drilling a squad of true colored men there, was notified that he must desist or suffer the consequences. There is a meaning to all this. I have not sought out these facts. They have come to me because the air is full of them. Everybody hears of something cognate. A troubled feeling pervades the whole loyal community. There is a fearful looking for of dreadful things, and not among alarmists, or women; but among those who watched the thunder clouds of 1860 and 1861, and breasted the tempest, too, when it burst.

This is my earnest, honest, sincere conviction—that if the Pennsylvania election goes for Johnson, actually endorses and pronounces for Johnson, he will accept the invitation and produce a revolution; call in the bands of Lee and Beauregard to obstruct the meeting of Congress. My means of information are pretty good. I know how troubled at heart and mind are those who gave him; who proffered life on scores of bloody fields for the flag.

In an access of executive frenzy, or at the dictation of passion or drunken debauch, General Grant may any day be put under arrest. The law concerning him is held to be unconstitutional, and the men embarked in this enterprise will not stand at trifles. All this, and much more, depends upon the October elections in a large degree.

I write thus, that if you are not impressed already with the idea I have sought to convey, you may at least have my reasons for holding it, and see whether it is not well grounded. If you consider it so, then speak, write, act, as a man does who is in the thick of the fight, and the flag he loves depending on the trusty blows he deals.

—In 1803, an Indian named Wm. Connolly married a wife in accordance with the aboriginal custom, he purchasing the bride. He lived with her twenty-eight years and had ten children. In 1821 they removed to Lower Canada, and the following year he forsook her and married his cousin. The abandoned wife forthwith returned to her native country, one thousand two hundred miles west of the Red River settlement, where she remained in a Convent until her death, in 1862, Conolly paying for her support. He treated their children with great kindness until he died in 1849. Her oldest son brought a suit to recover a portion of the property, on the ground that the second marriage was illegal and the first binding, and the Superior Court of Montreal has rendered judgment in his favor.

—The cattle trade between Texas and Kansas is a great wonder. This trade commenced three years ago, and has been on the increase until it has reached 40,000 head. Three years ago there were 2,000 head; the next year 7,000; last year about 18,000, and this year nearly 40,000 up to this time, with a prospect of reaching 50,000. Western Texas and parts of Mexico are strictly a grazing country, and the man who owns and controls less than 3,000 head is really a small operator. There are many men in Texas who own from 25 to 50, and even 80,000 head of cattle, and from the sale of these they receive their only income, many of them employing from 100 to 300 herders.

With the almost certain advent of Cholera, no household person will be unprepared for it. Secure what experience has demonstrated to be the most certain antidote—that which has cured once will cure again, and never purchase a new and untried article, when an OLD AND RELIABLE ARTICLE can be had. When the cholera visited us on two former occasions, it was found by experience that

VIGOROUS VITALITY.

The best defence against disease is a vigorous vitality. Disease is simply a struggle between the life-power and the invisible enemies that assail it; and the result depends upon the relative strength of the antagonistic principles. In proportion to the vigor and energy of the physique and the constitution, is their capacity to resist and fight off the morbid influences which produce sickness. It is a well known fact that active poisons affect in different degrees the weak and the strong. The dose of opium or of arsenic that will suffice to kill a child will scarcely sicken a stalwart man. It is the same with the aerial poisons which produce epidemic and endemic fevers, dysenteries, fluxes and the like. Their effect upon the system depends upon its power of resistance. Augment, therefore, this resistant power, if you would escape these evils. The tonic agent necessary to effect this object has been provided in

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, is the cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I did it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also say that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.

Yours, gratefully, C—.

THE COURTS.

Quarter Sessions, &c.

Court convened at 10 A. M., Hon. J. P. Sterrett on the Bench.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

The case of Commonwealth vs. William Fitzpatrick and Hugh Feely, arraigned for highway robbery, which was on trial at adjournment Monday, was resumed, and after a brief argument by the District Attorney was submitted to the jury by the Court, who charged the jury that the fact of the property taken being comparatively valueless did not alter the principle of the case, and that if the jury believed it had been forcibly taken by the defendants with the intention of appropriating to themselves it, as much or as little as though the pocket book had contained a thousand dollars instead of one cent. The jury returned a verdict of "guilty" as to Feely, and "not guilty" as to Fitzgerald. When called up for sentence Feely denied taking the articles, and at the instance of Mr. Kirkpatrick, Fitzgerald was called, and after being sworn, made a statement to the Court, which was in substance as follows: That he and Feely had been drinking, and on their way home they found Price lying on the bridge; that he caught him by the collar of the coat, and told him to come along, and that Feely came up then and he left him with Price. Sentence was deferred.

BIGAMY.

George Printer was next arraigned on a charge of bigamy. It was proven by the Commonwealth that on the 26th day of November, the defendant was married to Catharine O'Brien, with whom he lived for over a year, and that on the 7th day of March, 1867, he was married to Mrs. McKeant, widow of Col. McKean, formerly of Allegheny, with whom he lived as man and wife up to the time of his arrest, about six weeks ago. The first marriage was proven by the Priest by whom it was solemnized, and the second by Mrs McKean, and by the declarations of the defendant. In defence took the position that there was no second marriage, and called several witnesses, but one of whom answered, to prove that the defendant was a man of good character.

The Court charged the jury that declarations made in the present tense by the parties in the presence of a witness, to take each other as man and wife, was a legal marriage. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and undergo an imprisonment in the State Penitentiary for a term of one year. There is a charge of adultery still pending against Printer.

FALSE PRETENSE.

The next case taken up was the Commonwealth vs. Nicholas Bennett, on a charge of false pretense. The prosecutor keeps a livery stable in Allegheny, and the defendant was charged with obtaining a horse and buggy from the prosecutor, representing that it was for John Robinson, of Allegheny, with whom the defendant was employed, which was afterwards discovered to be a false representation. A verdict of guilty was rendered, and the defendant sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and undergo an imprisonment of three months in the county jail.

SURETY OF THE PEACE.

A surety of the peace case was next taken up, in which Philip Boyle was prosecutor and Edward McCormick defendant. Defendant was sentenced to pay the cost of prosecution.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.

John Donnelly, George Taylor and Nicholas Ketch were next arraigned, on a charge of malicious mischief, preferred by Catharine Werth, of Allegheny City. It was alleged that the defendants, who are boys about fourteen years of years, had thrown lighted fire crackers into the house of the prosecutrix, which set it on fire, consuming it and endangering the lives of the inmates of the building. Jury out.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Wm. McKean, charged with aggravated Assault and battery, John Lynch prosecutor, was next called, and it appearing that this was a cross prosecution, the cases were tried together. These cases originated out of a fight which occurred on the fourth of August, when it was alleged by Lynch that he had been seriously beaten by Haly, Wm. McKean, and Isabella McKean.

The case was still pending when Court adjourned.

Common Pleas.

SHOOTING AFFRAY ON THE WHARF.

On Monday night, between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock, an affray occurred on the Monongahela wharf, which came well nigh being fatal in its results. It appears that two men, John Bradford, steamboat watchman of this city, and Morgan H. Hall, of Ohio township, entered a tavern and after imbibing frequent potations were about to separate, when Bradford proposed to "take a drink before parting." To this proposition Hall assented, and in payment for the cigars and drink furnished Bradford handed the bar tender a ten dollar bill. Now it seems that Bradford was indebted to Hall in a small amount, and the latter presuming that a "bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," confiscated and pocketed the change. Bradford was not disposed to stand upon ceremony. He had enough fighting whiskey in him to screw his courage up to a sticking point, and putting his hand in his pocket, drew forth a pistol which he fired at the head of Hall. The ball passed the unfortunate man's cheek, inflicting a severe though not necessarily dangerous wound. Bradford made off after the shooting, but was subsequently arrested by the police, and confined in the tombs until yesterday morning. Upon a hearing before the Mayor, the facts as alleged were clearly made out and the prisoner was remanded to jail for trial, in default of one thousand dollars bail.

A SERIOUS ROW.

On Monday evening, four colored men, named respectively, John Cox, John Wheeler, John Price and Benjamin Jefferson, went into a well known drinking house, at No. 126 Third street, and called for liquor, which was furnished them by the proprietor, David Reich. A lunch was placed upon the counter which was quickly disposed of, and a few additional rounds of liquor sufficed to make the party not only hilarious but decidedly boisterous. In an adjoining room, a comfortable meal had been spread, in anticipation of the momentary arrival of an absent individual who had ordered it, and the hungry crowd demanded the entrance into the apartment. The owner demurred, but the roughs were not to be foiled, and forcing an entrance, not only demolished the viands but a part of the furniture, and in addition threatened to take the life of the proprietor. The latter, after considerable delay, succeeded in escaping from the building, and proceeding to the Mayor's office, procured the assistance of a posse of police, who accompanied him to the scene of disturbance. An attempt was made to arrest the gang, but before they could be subdued they made a most determined resistance. Jefferson produced a loaded revolver, while two of the others flourished razors and swore they would not be taken. They were finally overpowered, however, and with the exception of Jefferson, who made his escape, were escorted to the tombs. Upon a hearing before the Mayor, in the morning, Cox and Wheeler, were each fined twenty dollars and costs, which they paid and were discharged. Price was fined five dollars and costs, it appearing that he had not taken any active part in the affray, and was still in custody last night awaiting the arrival of his friends with the amount necessary to satisfy the claims of the prosecutor. Reich, was informed that he had a right to prefer a charge of riot against all the parties engaged in the row, but he declined doing so.

AN OLD CASE IN DURANCE.

A well known character, familiarly called "Tucker" Williams, was acting in a disorderly manner on Diamond street, Allegheny, yesterday, and upon being remonstrated with by officer Scott, commenced to abuse him in regular Billingsgate style. Scott submitted with the best grace possible, until forbearance ceased to be a virtue, when he seized the fellow and conducted him to the tombs, where he yet remains. He will have a hearing before the Mayor this morning.

ALLEGED CASE OF FALSE PRETENSE.

A resident of the Fifth ward, Allegheny, named C. F. Huckel, appeared before Alderman McMasters, yesterday, and made information against William Richards, of the same place, for false pretense. According to the statement of the prosecutor, he owned a cigar store on Beaver street, and some five weeks ago the defendant proposed to purchase his establishment. The defendant not having the wherewith on hand, convinced the prosecutor that he would be able to pay the amount on the fifth of the present month, upon which date the prosecutor, who had surrendered possession, called for the amount, and was requested to wait until the next day. On the succeeding day he called again, and was informed by Richards, that he had no money, that he might go and sue him for the amount if he saw fit. Whereupon Huckel proceeded to the Alderman's office, and made information as stated. A warrant was placed in the hands of officer Sharp, who probably has the alleged offender in custody at the present writing.

FEMININE ENERGETIC.

Mary McManus and Mary Bock were before Alderman Lindsay, on the Sixth ward, yesterday, the former having preferred a charge of assault and battery against the latter. It appears that from a very trivial cause, the parties became inordinately excited, and the defendant either assaulted or attempted to assault her competitor. The Alderman committed Miss Bock to jail for a hearing on Wednesday next, by which time the matter will probably be compromised.

ROW IN ALLEGHENY.

Three young men were arrested a few nights since, the name of one of whom was James Brown, (the names of the others we failed to ascertain,) charged with inflicting a severe and perhaps dangerous wound upon the head of a German in the upper end of Allegheny city. Officer Scott "nabbed" Brown, and after remaining in the "toombs" until Monday, he and his "partners" were discharged upon paying the injured man sixty-three dollars, and the city authorities the amount of costs assessed in such cases.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE STATE FAIR.

Most Auspicious Opening.

RECEPTION OF GOV. GEARY.

Address of Welcome by Gen. Roberts

REPLY BY THE GOVERNOR.

Notes of the Articles Exhibited.

Yesterday under most favorable auspices was commenced the eleventh annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society. According to the previously arranged programme, the gates were thrown open to the public yesterday morning, and the attendance was very large. The opening, however, was slightly premature, as the exhibitors were not prepared to display their goods as they would have them displayed, and many of the departments were unfinished in arrangement and decoration. However, the liberal attendance yesterday inspired those interested to labor zealously for the completion of their booths, and the proper location and display of their articles on exhibition, so that towards the close of the afternoon the Fair presented a finished appearance. The indefatigable exertions of President Hamilton and Secretary Lowrie, to render the Fair a success, now begin to show good fruits, and those who visit the grounds to-day will agree with us when we say that never has there been held in Pennsylvania or elsewhere in this country, an exhibition possessing more attractive features than the one just opened. It is highly creditable to the Association and to the whole enterprise of the farmers, merchants, manufacturers and artists who have contributed to the general exhibition. While we have not a single fault to find with the Fair, we might be permitted to quietly insinuate that Allegheny appears to have taken the lead in every other county in the State, and has shown much more enterprise than the other counties combined. This should not be the case. Although ours is a great manufacturing and agricultural district, Philadelphia might have been better represented. Her merchants have committed a grievous error through a lack of enterprise, or pride, for we should not complain. What she loses will prove a gain to our more spirited merchants. We have no doubt the hundreds of incontestible evidences of prosperity and contentment. When we look at the dark clouds which have been overhanging our city, we feel that it is a cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night." Reverting to my opening remarks, I assure you that any past history belongs to the people, not myself. In conclusion I heartily thank you for the reception, and will now address Mr. Hamilton, the President of the State Agricultural Association.

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN — Deeply sensible of the distinguished honor that has been conferred in selecting me to inaugurate the ceremonies and proceedings of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society," I am happy to appear before you for that purpose, on this interesting occasion of the annual exhibition.

Sixteen years ago a few intelligent citizens of the State, actuated by a spirit of enterprise and benevolence, a zealous regard for the promotion of the interests of agriculture and the mechanic arts, and for the prosperity of the good old Commonwealth, assembled together and organized this highly prosperous, substantial and useful association.

It was exceedingly difficult at its commencement to convince any considerable number of farmers, mechanics and artists that any material benefit could accrue to them from such an institution, and hence it was for some time regarded with apathy and indifference. But as its advantages began gradually to develop themselves, a change of sentiment rapidly occurred, and its utility was universally acknowledged, and its benefits every where realized; so that the society has long since attained the requirements on the field only first rival in the executive ability you have displayed in the organization and conduct of this Exposition of the products, industry and skill of our fellow citizens.

Now every citizen of the Republic will realize the beauties of civil liberty, and in the cultivation of the refinements and enjoyments of education appreciate and fully realize that his life is emblematical of the beautiful motto of our beloved Commonwealth, "Virtue, Liberty and Independence."

THE GROUNDS.

The location of the grounds on which the Fair is held, could not be more desirable or convenient. Nearly all of our readers are acquainted with the attractions of Citty Park, and we feel that it is useless to enter into any extended description. It is situated on the margin of Lawrenceville, and about one hundred rods from the city line, Penn and Liberty streets. The main entrance to the grounds is from Butler street, Lawrenceville, and the road leading from the street to the grounds has been greatly improved since the last exhibition. It has been graded and rolled, and has been covered with a thick layer of tan bark extending to the park. Within a few yards of the entrance gate the ticket office has been erected, and is arranged in such a manner as to wholly avoid all crowding or jostling.

ARTISTS' HALL.

This is a well designed and commodious structure, formed in the shape of a Greek Cross and located immediately opposite the gate entrance, in the centre of the building, displayed on a pyramid, some very fine sculpture, models of ships, [illegible] a model of the Duquesne steam engine, [illegible] united in wood by W. K. Shaw, who has [illegible] the exhibition, attract much attention. [illegible] the exhibitors in this hall is Mr. W. [illegible] head, who has a splendid collection of plain and colored photographs. Messrs. R. L. H. Dabbs, S. J. Osborne & Co., Gano, and Cargo, all well known photographers, exhibit fine collections of plain and colored pictures, the display, as a whole, being exceedingly fine. Professor Cowley, of the Iron City College, and Professor N. Shaffer, have on exhibition specimens of plain and ornamental penmanship, and some most artistic pieces of pen drawing. Mr. John Danahy has some photographs in oil and water colors, besides which Messrs. Krebs Bros., and A. Hani & Co., lithographers, exhibit some of the finest productions in that branch of art.

This department is one of the most attractive in the Fair, and visitors can linger for hours in examining its beautiful contents.

MECHANICS' HALL.

Passing through Artists' Hall, we reach an attractive department bearing the above name. It contains works of mechanism which will repay close investigation. Elsewhere we particularly notice its principal attractions.

AMPHITHEATRE.

Turning slightly to the right, after passing through Mechanics' Hall, we reach the covered Amphitheatre, which is designed to accommodate one thousand persons with seats to witness the sports of the race course. The roof is made waterproof and will afford excellent shelter in case of rain.

THE RACE COURSE.

The race course is one half a mile of as well rolled, smooth and level track as we ever noticed. It is arranged to have several spirited horse of speed between some celebrated goers on this course this afternoon, and all lovers of the turf should be in attendance.

DOMESTIC HALL.

Perhaps no other department will prove more attractive to the reader than Domestic Hall, which adjoins Mechanics' Hall. It is a large building, and will afford room for display adapted for display. Among the prominent exhibitors are the following: W. W. Wallace, granite and marble; Bailey, Farrell & Co., specimens of lead pipe; Jarvis, Halpine & Co., marble bath tub, wash stands, etc.; Gordon, Boston cooking range, cooking, parlor and office stoves; Weyman Bro's. exhibit some beautiful slate marble mantles of the finest finish; J. S. Fosh, of Harrisburg, copper riveted hose and leather; Roberts & Sherratt, ornamental stoves; H. D. Lesky, oil well boring tools; Hanks, Moss & Co., platform counter, and other kinds of scales; Anderson, Boyd & Co., Union Marble Works, marble mantles; E. H. Hartley & Co., harness, saddlery, etc.; H. Anschutz & Sons, ranges, cooking and parlor stoves, etc.; John H. Herron & Co., Stella Works, office, parlor and cooking stoves; Bovard, Rose & Co., carpets; James Robb, boots and shoes; Evans & Co., fancy goods; Abraham Dary, fancy fans and Indian trinkets; Messrs. McGillum & Co., make a splendid display of chandeliers, oil stoves, window shades, etc. Immediately opposite is the space allotted to Messrs. Oliver McClintock & Co., who make a fine display of carpets, etc. Mr. Chatoney, agent of the Grover Baker Sewing Machine, has them on exhibition at the place occupied by Messrs. McClintock & Co. Fin. Mains & Co., exhibits a case of hats, caps and furs. F. Korg, sells a case of hats, caps and furs. F. Korg, sells a case of hats, caps and furs. F. Korg, sells
